Jackie Galloway

Seeking Sponsors

As the first 2016 designated Olympian, I will represent the USA in the 2016 Olympics with honor. I am going there to win. The current system for Amateur Taekwondo Athletes in this country requires the athlete to be either self-funded or to secure sponsorship. My International Ranking was a key factor in determining my role in this year's 2016 Olympics. This requires travel and participation in as many high-level international tournaments as possible.

Raising funds is vital to my role in this Olympic Dream!"

Jackie's Bio:

Jacqueline Rose Galloway Sanchez burst onto the adult Taekwondo scene in 2010 by making history and the National Team for Mexico. At 14 years old Jackie Galloway was the youngest female ever to make Mexico's Senior National Team, and she did it in spectacular fashion. Jackie's rise to the top included knocking off Mexico's famous Edna Diaz (2005 World Champion), and stopping Edna's bid to return to the World Championships or the Olympics.

Jackie then moved from her home, in Dallas, Texas, to the Olympic Training Center in Mexico City. This is where Jackie settled in and began to develop into a dominant force over the next 2 years. Her international experience started in the World Cup of 2010 in China. Jackie's points and battling the World's #1 ranked player from Korea contributed to the Mexican Female Team's 5th place finish.

Jackie went on to represent Mexico in the 2011 World Championships. Jackie is the 2011 Junior Pan American Champion. In 2012 she was the US Open Bronze Medalist, Swedish Open Champion, Dutch Open Champion, and the 2012 Junior World Champion Bronze Medalist. Her experience and victories grew as the 2012 Olympics approached. In the end, Jackie won the Olympic Alternate position for the 2012 London Olympics and now has achieved her ultimate goal: To represent the USA in the 2016 Olympics.

A few countries that Jackie has visited and fought in Taekwondo:

Korea (4 times), Germany (2 times), Spain (2 times), China, Egypt, England, Mexico, Sweden, USA

Why Mexico? Why USA?

Jackie is a proud Mexican-American that has dual citizenship. She was born here in the USA, but she understands and is proud of her Mexican heritage. Jackie is one of those rare and special talents that will continue to rise in any environment. Put simply, Mexico is where Jackie "broke through" first, but the USA is home. Mexico offered her the unique resources and funding that were necessary for her to gain early international experience. Jackie was 14 years old, and she did not speak a word of Spanish. She was, however, determined to live her dream of one day being World Champion. Jackie went where the opportunity led her, but after the 2012 Olympics, it was time to come home. Now age 20, Jackie is a sophomore at Southern Methodist University in Dallas, Texas, studying bio-mechanical engineering. Jackie is achieving her Olympic and World Championship dreams in spite of the financial challenges. Here in the USA, athletes are either self-funded or they must find sponsorship support.
